

Green Chain Circular

A handy print-out for your walk

This is an urban wander, but takes in as many green spaces as I could along the way. Particular gems are Beckenham Place Park (though the really nice bit is over the railway line from the area that I take you to – other caches already here though), and Elmstead Woods, where there are also more caches. The route is around 7.5 miles long.

You will need to bring:

A pen (and paper to note down the bonus cache numbers)

Tweezers

A small magnet for poking into holes! Something metallic seems to work too

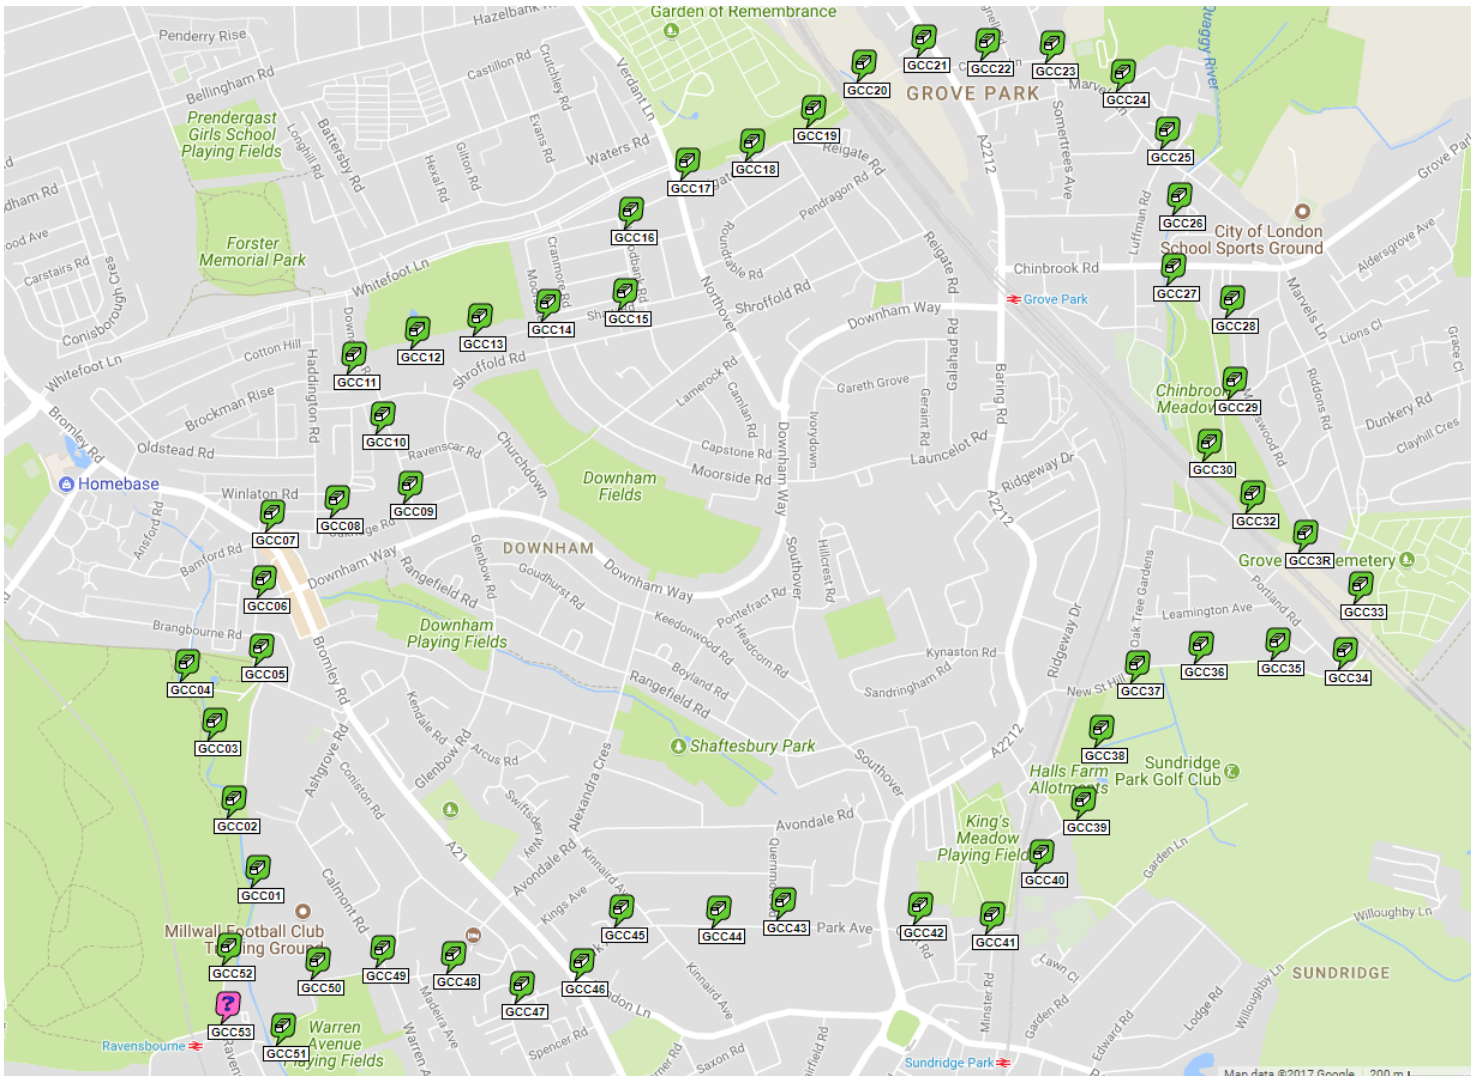

Water and snacks (but there are supply stops on route).

Please return caches to the exact place that you find them. If anything seems weird, missing or damaged then don't hesitate to leave me a Needs Maintenance and I'll get out to fix as soon as I can. Some of these caches are on my walk home every day so are easily visited.

I invested lots of time in hiding this series – 'TFTC' logs aren't really fair! :-)

I hope you enjoy it – there is certainly some variety. Caches are detailed on next page – this includes the hints, so fold over this column if you don't want to see them straight away!
